The building has been extensively renovated to blend stylish décor with the building's many original periods features that date back to the early eighteenth century. With its bold and imposing façade, this prestigious address houses ten office suites that radiate off an impressive entrance hall, creating a great working environment for the image-conscious business. Elegant sash windows, some with window seats and shutters, steep the main panelled staircase, and many offices with abundant natural light. The building retains many fine elements, including a former ballroom reflecting the property's varied past from a fine Georgian country house to a Catholic girls' home. In addition, there are modern kitchen and washroom facilities on each floor. The alternative gated entrance provides a landscaped block-paved courtyard with car parking and additional parking.
