Stansfield Park

Oxford OX3 8SB

A short bus ride from Oxford City Centre, this centre for Innovation offers a flexible, purpose-built hub for start-up and early-stage businesses. Set in 15 acres of woodland, the state of the art office, meeting and conference facilities create an inspiring business environment. Situated around the city's leading research centres, including Nuffield Department of Medicine, Cancer Research UK and the John Radcliffe Hospital are close by. The centre is a 14-minute drive from the city centre, and Oxford train station is just a 20-minute journey away.

This fantastic work centre is Oxford's new home for young science and technology businesses. The centre for innovation provides early-stage companies with workspace, conference and meeting facilities and business support. The centre has a range of spaces available, with offices ranging from 6 to 22 people. The centre also offers purpose-built facilities, flexible terms and has an onsite management team to help with any queries you may have. Meeting and conference spaces are suitable for up to 20 people, and also, the centre boasts a 120-seat auditorium on-site. The workspace is perfectly located, only a 14-minute drive to the city centre.
